(Windy Hill, a picture-perfect home in Kilmacolm, Scotland, is one of only two private homes built by Charles Rennie Mackintosh (1868 –1928). Mackintosh was commissioned to build Windy Hill in 1900, when he was just 32 and embarking on what promised to be a brilliant career as an architect. Furnished by him and his wife, Margaret Macdonald, the home features incredible fireplaces, panelling, stained glass, light fixtures and decorative schemes. The Art Nouveau style that will forever be associated with Mackintosh can still be seen in the glass-fronted cupboards, worktops and wood panelling. Just like Kerry, Mackintosh loved exploring the contrast between strong right-angles and floral-designed decorative motifs, and at Windy Hill he was able to give his imagination full rein. Kerry's design honours this intrinsic part of Scottish heritage as she places Windy Hill amongst Art Nouveau swirls in surrounding meadows, footpaths and skies. The design is carefully laced with roundels of Mackintosh symbols- lines, webs and dots.)

(More commonly known for its medicinal properties, St John's Wort often gets overlooked as a pretty little shrub with cheery yellow flowers. The blossoms last from midsummer until autumn, and they are followed by colourful berries. Vicky has coupled the vibrant pointy petals with contrasting soft muted toadstools which almost look like snow-topped mountains. The toadstools at the top are Shaggy Inkcaps which stand tall next to Clouded Agarics at the bottom of the design.)

(The foxglove is one of the most familiar of our wild flowers and certainly the most distinctive. It thrives best in dappled shade and is perfectly adapted to cope in sites where light varies throughout the day, woodland areas being ideal. Ferns & Foxgloves by Emma Bossons FRSA is a celebration of woodland flora, where bold, architectural spires of foxgloves soar, bursting out at the base, where tubular flowers hang. Emma has painted the petals the colour of strawberry sorbet with delicate freckles within. Unfurling ferns are scattered amongst the flowers on the dense woodland floor.)

MOORCROFT VASE IN THE SWEETNESS DESIGN By Designer Nicola Slaney.

(With their delightful wisps and tendrils, sweet peas have made a lovely floral subject at Moorcroft for decades and so their reoccurrence was inevitable. Nicola scattered a wild and unkempt cluster of the colourful annual flowers, with delicate tendrils tubelined in green, for the Moorcroft Club's 30th anniversary in 2017. Its popularity was instant and could simply not be ignored. With connoisseurs eager for more, Sweetness makes a very welcome re-appearance in 2018. Nicola has used a pure white background to her design and as a result her sweet peas appear bright, cheerful and tempting.)

MOORCROFT H 17.50 x W 13.50 x D 13.50 cm VASE (Shape No 63/7) "LIBRARY LIGHTS" (Limited Edition 25 Only This One Being The Actual Trial Piece) By Designer Emma Bossons FRSA FOR THE GLASGOW FOUR COLLECTION. R.R.P.295.00 (Whilst Moorcroft celebrated the launch of a new Mackintosh collection inspired by 78 Derngate, the only house in England designed by Charles Rennie Mackintosh, at 78 Derngate itself, the world was awoken to find that Mackintosh's flagship building, The Glasgow School of Art, had been devastated by a second fire. The west wing of the Glasgow School of Art accommodated the school's most famous room – the Mackintosh Library – which was constructed around a complex framework of timber posts and beams influenced by traditional Japanese architecture. Prior to the horrific fire of June 2018, the library had been painstakingly renewed from American tulip wood. Described as "one of the finest rooms in Glasgow," Emma decided that she would endeavour to recreate the wonder of this room from the cluster of electric lights that cascaded from the centre of the ceiling.

Mackintosh's use of glass blowers to create gold, pink and purple streaky glass was to mark this room's interior design out as his masterpiece. With skilful tubelined latticework, Emma captures the raw, modern industrial-geometrics of the ceiling light's metalwork and softens it with Mackintosh's subtle pinks, purples and amber infills. Sky-blue arches, reminiscent of how the huge, elongated windows that straddled the two floors would have allowed the blue skies to pour into the room, allow the spirit of the room to be resurrected within her own design.)

R.R.P.350.00 (Scotland Street School was designed by Charles Rennie Mackintosh between 1903-1906 for the School Board of Glasgow. With many features built into the stonework and staircases, there is something to admire around every corner. In her design, Emma incorporates downward triangles and uses strong colours - golden yellow with touches of emerald green, vermilion, blue and petunia – into a Moorcroft design with a distinctly art deco flavour. Scotland Street anticipated a new and individual way the decorative arts would change with the arrival of Art Deco in the next decade and Emma's design captures this transition in Scotland Street.)

(The Ballad of Tam Lin tells the tale of a woman named Janet who passes through the forest of Carterhaugh and meets Tam Lin, a slave to the Fairy Queen. Janet picks a flower for him and rescues him from his elfin life. 'My design shows Janet hiding in thorn bushes waiting for Tam Lin to pass by on a parade – from here she grabs him and eventually he becomes human again' adds designer Emma Bossons.

Tamlaine is a painting by Glasgow School artist Herbert MacNair based on the fable. Emma chose a classic chalice shape to offer her interpretation of his work.)

The instrument generally has a short sustain, necessitating rapid strumming or plucking when it is used to play melodies. Balalaikas are often used for Russian folk music and dancing.)
